Twins Parker and Charlie are polar opposites.

Where Charlie is fearless, Parker is careful.

Charlie is confident while Parker aims to please.

Charlie is outgoing and outspoken; Parker is introverted and reserved.

And of course, thereâ€™s the one other major difference: Charlie got leukemia. Parker didnâ€™t.

But now that Charlie is officially in remission, life couldnâ€™t be going better for Parker. Sheâ€™s landed a prestigious summer internship at the hospital and is headed to Harvard in the fall to study pediatric oncologyâ€”which is why the anxiety sheâ€™s felt since her Harvard acceptance is so unsettling. And it doesnâ€™t help that her relationship with Charlie has been on the rocks since his diagnosis.

Enter Finn, a boy whoâ€™s been leaving strange graffiti messages all over town. Parker canâ€™t stop thinking about those messages, or about Finn, who makes her feel free for the first time: free to doubt, free to make mistakes, and free to confront the truth that Parker has been hiding from for a long time.

That she keeps trying to save Charlie, when the person who really needs saving is herself.
